

Dear Valued Customer,

Bird stamps continue to feature prominently in our releases, because Namibia is blessed with a diverse and exciting avifauna – and because birds, with their attractive looks and gift of flight, continue to inspire people all over the world.

Crakes are wetland birds. As a predominantly dry country, Namibia has limited ideal habitat for such birds, yet when good rains have fallen and lush temporary wetlands have been created, crakes turn up at surprising locations around Namibia, guided by the extraordinary senses that birds possess. We trust you will enjoy this release.

Sincerely,
Bennie Jacobs

DID YOU KNOW?

Seven different crake species have been recorded from Namibia. Three of these – the African crake, the black crake and Baillon's crake (the birds featured on our stamps) – have a wider distribution and regular records in the country.
